Victim of Budget, Enrollment Decline

More in deep sadness than in anger, Rosemary Blair talked this week about the factors underlying the decision of the school administrators and school board not to reriew her contract

Mrs. Blair teaches art at Princeton High School She has taught in the Princeton Regional school system for 1212 years, four of them at the high school Teachers receive tenure after three years, so she has had tenure for nine and onehalf years

Rosemary Blair Sag. Rather than Angry

She is president-elect of the Art Educators of New Jersey The New Jersey State Museum approached her earlier this year with a request to exhibit the work of about 60 PHS students who study under her and Lier colleague Estelle Brown (see "Art in Princeton." page 10B). She is on the board of the Arts Alliance tor Education/Kennedy Center, editor of the Secondary School Guide for Art Education, a niember of the New Jersey State Commissioner of Education's task force on a state plan for the arts in education

Mrs Blair is a victim of the Princeton public schools, declining enrollment, and the state-imposed cap on school budgets. She will be replaced in the art department at Princeton High by David Mackey, who is being brought in from Littlebrook elementary school. He has more years of service - more seniority - than Mrs. Blair in spite of her 12½ years.

When the school board voted to close Johnson Park (elementary school), we were told that no tenured teachers would suffer, so we didn't feet threatened. Mrs. Blair says. "It was an unhappy complex of events. I don't think what happened to me was done carelessly, and I don't blame anyone in the administration. Lunderstand the problem of caps and declining enrollment.

Mrs. Blair says that an art teacher at Johnson Park agreed to go into classroom teaching so that Mrs. Blair could be kept in her job. The school board would not allow this. Mrs. Blair says, and cited a ruling made by the State Commissioner that a teacher can't be transferred it a "riffing" would be

'RtF' means ' reduction in force' and refers to the bumping effect of moving teachers along the line according to their seniority and certification until finally somebody gets bumped out altogether

"The riffing would have happened to a junior person with only three or four years experience Mrs. Blair says. But had 121 siyears.

A lawyer with the New Jersey Education Association (the teachers, union) told me the board

Art Teacher Loses High School Job; PCH Will Appeal to Borough Council To Reverse Rejection by Zoning Board

Princeton Community Housing is appealing to Borough Council to reverse the stinging 4-2 Zoning Board defeat handed last Thursday to PCH for its 89-unit apartment building planned for the lot next to the public library

But it's not that simple is this the kind of case that must be heard first. on appeal, by the governing body, under the Borough's land-use ordinance? and even if it is, should Council really hear it all, since the Borough might be considered "an interested party?

The Borough's lawyer, Edwin Schmierer, said on Tuesday that he expects to make this decision by the end of the week

The Borough could be an "interested party" because it owns the parking lot where the apartment building would go PCH already has an agreement with the Borough to lease the land. If PCH decides to bypass Council and take its appeal straight to the court, it could be sent straight back again by a judge who didn't think PCH had exhausted all its other options of appeal

Commenting on the decision after Thursday night's debacle, A.C. Reeves Hicks, attorney for PCH. said the Zoning Board Tappeared to disagree with planning that has occurred over the last four years. rather than consider what was in front of them to consider

Michael Rockland, acting as Zoning Board chairman because John McGoldrick disqualified himself-he was one of three board members to do so-told PCH at the midnight close of the hearing.

'We hope you will come back with a modified project. The sentiment is to approve, but this simply ish titrie best project.

In the vote, Orren Jack Turner moved to deny PCH's requests. The other 'no" votes were Norman A Schuele III, alternate Harry Clark and Mr. Rockland, Kathryn Kunn, and Barrie S. Royce voted "yes." Zoning Board member Alan Chimacoff and alternate Letitia Ufford also disqualified themselves

PCH had to have five "yes" votes Members knew they would get a no vote from Mr. Turner but even that would have given them the five positives they needed Nobody expected a resounding 4-2 rejec-

Princeton Community Housing, Inc., the non-profit organization that built Princeton Community Village in the Township, consists of 19 organizations-churches, institutions of various kinds, organizations. Its proposed Borough apartment building would be for the elderly and the handicapped. It is planned to be tive stories high, in "U" shape with a courtyard at the back, facing the rear of the houses on North Tulane

The Zoning Board had to find that the building was part of a general plan designed to bring together, and not separate, the residential and business areas of the downtown PCH also needed a waiver of the 39 required parking spaces. 30 for residents and nine for the stores planned for the Spring Street side of the building

The Borough had told the Zoning Board it would take care of the nine commercial spaces-presumably in its Spring Street garage PCH had planned 12 spaces for residents. and told the Zoning Board it could provide the rest, but would need relief from open space requirements if it did so

These key questions occupied board and audience

- Is 12 spaces enought for 88 tenants?
- · How does anybody know the Borough will ever build that garage?
- . Couldn't this building be built somewhere else?

PCH architect William S Dix explained that the building was designed for the site the Borough was willing to give. The 100-apartment original had already been reduced to 89, a building half the size, which some members said they might go along with, wasn't possible economically

Jocelyn Helm, director of the John Hammer asked whether the 12 spaces wouldn't be taken up by janitors, cooks and other helpers He was told employees would have to park elsewhere. The project is designed as "congregate housing," that is, services like a dining-room and special care would be available for old people who can get around, but may not be able to cook or keep

William von Oehsen, Zoning Board attorney, said early in the hearing that he was concerned about making a decision "based on something not yet there-the public garage

If construction of the building eliminates 103 parking spaces in the present lot, and the garage never gets built, what happens to those cars? Zoning Board members asked, and Mr. Turner remarked that the Venturi and Rauch urban design study "seemed to show" that the garage should be built first

Mr Rockland also asked the board to think about precedent. "If a project starts out like this one, with all kinds of advantages, and we grant more, how do we answer other applicants?

Architect Jeremiah Ford, who said he represented Trinity Church on the PCH board, responded that "precedent can be examined in many ways-the Benson Building got variances for 16 apartments with no parking required apartments renting at over $500."

"It's hard to understand this negative feeling," said Jacqueline Rogers, from the audience "This is not purely charitable, the Borough wifl get $300,000. plus $38,000 yearly in lieu of taxes, and the commercial rent

Phvllis Cassel warned that nobody knows what funding will be in one or two years PCH made adjustments to fit the site-it's not such a generous thing, with all kinds of advantages.

had a right to interpret the Commissioner's ruling any way they chose, and they ₹ chose a rather narrow way.

Mrs. Blair emphasizes that her dismissal has nothing to do with job performance, "and this seems unjust," She did not learn until early April that she would be dropped

"No professional -lawyer, doctor, architect -has his or her job wiped out without cause and without any compensation."

Mrs. Blair explains that she will receive no severance pay. She will not be re-imbursed for the 111 sick days she has never taken. She was not allowed to retire and collect her pension because she had not yet completed 15 years. It is still not known what will happen to the money she herself had contributed to her pension.

Although she acknowledges the strictures placed on school boards by hudget caps and fewer children, she says that other school districts have warned endangered staff ahead of time and even helped them to plan.

"I only need three credits to he accredited as an English heart strings, but we're being teacher," she says, "and I summer. But of course, it's 'seniority by discipline' and others have a summer but of course, it's garages,' retorted Mr. Royce, others have a summer this summer. others have more seniority in teaching English

She says also that she needs only a few credits to pick up a certification in special student services. One district, she added, paid a teacher for certification course work three years ahead of the time when a staff change might "This building is in the wrong have to be made.

Was Salary a Factor? There are 43 elementary school teachers with less seniority than Rosemary Blair, she has learned. She declined to comment on a question regarding the economics of her situation: did board and administration decide not to renew her contract because a teacher at her salary level costs more than one who hasn't been around as many years?

Mrs. Blair stated that she had remained in the Princeton system for these dozen years from choice:

Many people in education like to move," she com-mented, "but my choice was to get into one, good system and develop there. The strength of any school system is the good people who elect to stay there. You get to know the kids - I've known some of my students since they were born! - and you can help them better. I believe this approach to be a valid one.

Notice to Residents of Township

In response to an increasing number of requests from residents, Township Committee last Wednesday unanimously passed the so-called "litter law," which affects the distribution of free circulation papers such as TOWN TOPICS.

Many homeowners, unsuccessful in efforts to halt delivery of one or more of these papers either permanently or temporarily, urged Committee to act on this matter. The result is an ordinance listing specific fines to be levied against either the publisher or distributor of a paper if he is found guilty of ignoring a request to stop delivery

The resident must initiate the action by either delivering a letter in person or sending a certified letter to the publisher or distributor.

TOWN TOPICS readily understands residents' sentiments in wanting a law of this type. In more than 35 years of publishing a free circulation paper, long before it became fashionable to do so, TOWN TOPICS has learned that if it is not welcome in the homes of the vast majority of people it seeks to serve, there is little point in continuing to publish.

In this regard, the paper has endeavored to provide its readers with everything they want in a community newspaper, and give it to them free of charge. Over the years, this unique concept has proved to be successful, and should continue to be so in the future.

The paper has always tried to handle all requests for a halt in delivery as quickly as possible. With the exception of those handled by the Princeton Post Office, 95 percent of all copies are delivered by three professional delivery services, the same ones who deliver daily papers in this area

Residents who have dealt with one of these delivery services in the past when going on vacation should continue to do so. Those who do not receive a daily paper and are uncertain of the identity of their delivery service should call TOWN TOPICS Requests for a permanent halt to delivery should also be made to TOWN TOPICS

We are confident the delivery services we employ to distribute TOWN TOPICS will be able to handle your requests. Please forgive an occasional error on their part. If there is a repeated problem, call this office, 924-2200

Friends of Teachers Scheduled for Transfer Attempt to Influence Final School Board Vote

The transfer - or, as many in the audience Tuesday night defined it, "the involuntary transfer" - of over two dozen teachers drew parent and student partisans who packed the small Valley Road conference room hoping to influence a final school board vote. That vote had not yet come at press time, but the eloquent pleas did not seem likely to have much effect.

Most of the "no transfer!" requests were related to five physical education teachers. and most specifically to Larry Ivan and Tom Murray. Mr. Ivan is being transferred from the high school to an elementary school (littlebrook) and Mr. Murray from the high school to the middle school.

Francis Murray, who is being reassigned from Llttlebrook to Community Park, was also the subject of considerable discussion.

When someone asked "Why are the phys ed teachers the ones we're talking about? school board vice-president Ann McGoldrick replied: "Other staff members involved in transfers asked their supporters not to come tonight. The board has letters on their behalf.

When the question was phrased a different way and a high school student asked why there were so many phys ed transfers, Superintendent Paul Houston said there had been other phys. ed transfers and also music transfers in other years. He said that often there is not much choice because of the certification teachers may have

In a brief opening skirmish between the lawyer for Mr. Ivan and Francis Murray, the lawyer explained he had asked the board, in writing, for a public airing of the reasons why his clients had been transferred. His clients, he said, had no objection to "certain re-assignments." but protested the way the transfer had been handled. He suggested that litigation might

Under sunshine law regulations, private personnel matters are not discussed in public, explained board president Dale Madden. He added that even if Mr. Ivan and Mr. Murray agreed, the discussion could spill over to other transferred teachers, which would be unfair to them and might involve the board legally

When one parent protested that he "didn't see any sense removing two fine teachers (Mr. Ivan and Tom Murray) from the high school - it's a waste of talent to send them to an elementary school," Mrs. McGoldrick retorted:

The board believes strongly that an elementary school is as important as the middle school or the high school. It is not a waste of talent to put someone in middle or elementary."

The parent replied that students have particular needs at particular ages, and that a teacher with more experience dealing with high-school students would be 'wasted" at an elementary school.

"Teens answer back, little kids don't, one high school student remarked, to laughter.

This student told the audience that when Mr. Ivan had been transferred to the high school cafeteria, food fights ceased, He had approached a student who had not taken his tray back, the speaker said, and added:

"Previous teachers in the cafeteria hadn't had the courage to get those students to take their trays back '

It had been a painful year of decisions, Superintendent Paul Houston told the audience, requiring the hoard to take what seemed to be working well, and changing it. With the closing of Johnson Park, he continued, the schools had to take resources going to elementary schools and shift them to the high school, where class size was too large Students had to be re-districted. teachers transferred

"We had to keep the needs of the district as a whole in mind," he explained.

Littlebrook parents worned that the transfer of Francis Murray might mean the end of Littlebrook's back-pack program.

We've been told that parents could do the program, or other teachers after hours, but this would not be good," said parent Joel Studebaker "The teachers doing the program know the kids '

He announced three petitions: 120 signatures urging the board to keep Francis. Murray and Robert Gilbert at Littlebrook; another signed by 72 students; a third signed by ten former Littlebrook students

Francis Murray will go to Community Park and Mr. Gilbert to John Witherspoon Middle School. Dr. Houston suggested that children in these schools might now benefit from the back-pack program they didn't have before

To protests about the transfer of Tom-Murray, high school wrestling coach, to the middle school, Dr. Houston suggested the importance of a wrestling program at the middle school that would feed students into a high-school level program.

"We are never given any specifics, only that it's for the good of the students,' complained Yoram Hazony, high school student member of the school board "We've been trying to figure out -- why? People with objections and questions keep getting the same answers. All five of these phys ed teachers were moved -- but none of them had anything to do with the Johnson Park closing."

Dr Houston explained that Johnson Park's closing was "only the trigger," and that the system had one more phys ed. teacher than it had a slot for

This was an amendment suggested by Edward Herald of Riverside Drive. Committee adopted this ordinance unanimously last Wednesday after getting itself snarled in procedural tangles over this and another amendment.

The other amendment had to do with making the wording "publisher and-or distributor" uniform throughout. James L. Green of 688 Ewing Street objected to the ambiguity of the phrase and said it should specify "publisher" only as the responsible party. Township attorney Edwin W. Schmierer said the ordinance was worded that way to give the citizen "two avenues of approach."

Frances Goldmark, attorney for the Spectrum, took exception to the fine provision, saying it was "terrihly unfair" to the publisher and to youngsters who deliver papers who, through carelessness in reading instructions, could run up fines of $2,500 in a day It was pointed out that juveniles would be handled in juvenile court and that the municipal judge has the discretion to impose, and then to suspend, fines.

Three residents spoke of making multiple phone calls and writing certified letters to certain publishers, all to no avail. One woman asked for anonymity because her hame had been broken into. Douglas Corlette of Snowden Lane asked, "Could homeowners subscribe to these giveaways? It doesn't help to write certified letters,"

Mayor Josie Hall said she apped the ordinance would arce publishers to "get a responsive and responsible listribotion system". At which, Barbara Diamond, a digorous opponent of the ordinance, jumped up to assail he mayor for attempting to mpose regulations on the way brinted matter is distributed, which she says is infringing an reedom of speech.

Committeeman William 'herry asked that the 'ownship Administrator's office be prepared to give essistance to homeowners by iroviding names and adlresses of publishers and listributors and forms for illing notice of objection to ontinued delivery

Township and the chairman of the Planning Board ranged behind him and ready for battle, Lin Symons Ihinks - and hopes - he'll be able to keep his Citgo Service Station in the Princeton Shopping Center. See story, this page.

When he asked the post Cathy Loux, managing office for an increase, he said, Princeton's main post office he was told that increases on an interim basis until were not negotiable until the appointment of a postmaster, end of the second year, and he said she is talking with had only a one-year contract.

A Drive-in Bank? Linwood see whether any would be Symons, who has worked for interested in a two-year Cities Service for 30 years, has had the Citgo station in the Victor Delcampe, owner of Shopping Center for 14. Cities the key shop, had a one-year Service has had a lease with contract with the post office. the Shopping Center, and Mr. He signed up when his own Symons has leased his station

But Cities Service wants to to handle both the key drop this kind of arrangement, and has told Mr. Symons to But the Delcampes' own negotiate directly with the business began to grow, and Center for his own lease. Citgo the volume of post office would continue to supply him

He says Mr. Goldberg asked

Then he heard that the Center was interested in having the Howard Savings Bank as a drive-in bank in the Citgo spot. Mr. Symons, and others in the community have heard that M. Epstein's, the department store, would like to see the Shopping Center upgraded, and has suggested the bank. Mr. Goldberg was not available for comment on this question.

Mr. Symons reports that Mr. Goldberg said the executors of the estate of the late George Warnecke, former owner of the Center, wanted the bank, but that he would try to get a lease for Mr. Symons.

'I haven't had either a 'yes or a 'no','' Mr. Symons said this week, "and the lease is up July 8. I think this service station brings people into the Center. My customers leave cars here for repair, and then go off shopping Besides, we have the waiting room and ticket sales for the New York

Both Mayor Hall and Mrs. Hutter, for the Planning Board, feel strongly that a service station is, as Mrs Hutter says, "a necessary and important use for that part of town. A gas station is an essential public service. Our Master Plan encourages the commercial development of the Shopping Center, and giving up the station is not in keeping with that plan

Several years ago, a Princeton bank was rejected when it presented plans for a drive-in.

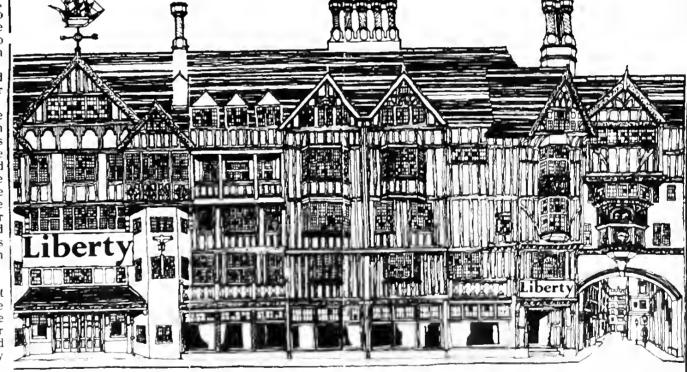

David Blair, Township Committee member, pointed out that in the event of another gasoline shortage, Princeton's overall capacity - and hence, its allocations - would be cut if the town were one service station short

The Princeton Association of Girl Scouts is seeking volunteers, men or women age 18 or over who can devote even as little as three to four hours a month to scouting.

Currently composed of 11 troops, the Girls Scouts helps its members to grow in self-awareness and in their relationships to others. Scouting also helps girls to develop leadership skills, develop values, and gives them the opportunity to serve their community. Princeton Girl Scouts have visited nursing homes, planted flowers in parks, helped at the library and at Bainbridge House, and built bluebird houses.

Volunteers are needed as leaders, assistant leaders, and to serve in numerous supportive roles. Persons interested in helping are asked to call Carol Haag at 924-5857.

WEEK IN WASHINGTON For Stuart Girls, Nine students from Stuart Country Day School have returned from a week in Washington, D.C. with deeper insights into the workings of our federal government. The girls parlicipated in a program sponsored by Close-Up, a nonprofit organization.

The meetings and seminars arranged for high school boys and girls allow students to learn about Congress, the administration, lobbying, defense and the judicial system at first hand

The Stuart contingent met with Senator Bill Bradley, Senator Harrison Williams and a number of government officials. The meetings were usually followed by seminars, and these in-depth workshops were particularly helpful sessions, according to Mrs.

The LANDAU Philosophy

(It's Really Quite Simple)

PART XXXVIII

The Problem: Reduced Inventory Levels.

Today's spirolling inflotion coupled with stoggeringly high interest rotes. forces both merchants and manufacturers to closely manitor inventory levels. Unfortunately, the ultimate loser is the consumer, encountering escoloting prices and dwindling selections

The Landau Solution: Common sense and creative inventory control.

Upon visiting our shop, mony first-time customers are overwhelmed by our unending selections, at the beginning middle, or end of a season. We corry perhaps 5 or 6 times the normal inventory for a store our size (to us this is just common sense).

But even by corrying on extremely large inventory, we don't always have what you want when you want it: Which brings us to the Landau creative

This Saturday, June 6th our selection of Liberty of Landon sportswear will opproach infinity (If it's possible for inventory levels to opproach infinity.)

Pat Honnum, of Honnum Designs will be here with bolts and bolts of imported Liberty of London 100% cotton print fabric. You select the style, you select the print (the combinations are endless), and on June 20th your custom-mode Liberty will be ready. Dresses skirts, shirts, slack's shorts. Pat has the ability and creativity to do almost anything

Combine Pots flexibility with Liberty's 106 years of experience and we re sure you li be very excited by the results

You see at Landou's we know well never have everything that you want ... but that won t keep us from trying. It is that simple,

Redesigned One Markham to Be Open For Public Preview Sunday Afternoon

project in the history of Princeton has been stalemated for so long, but the end is now in sight for the conbuilding (See accompanying box)

Work is rapidly nearing completion on the massive structure, located on the corner of Nassau and Markham, and a public preview open house has been set for this Sunday from 1 to 4 p m. Those attending will be able to see how the Nassau Street landmark that showed no progress as an office huilding for nearly a decade is being converted into condominium apartments.

Guests will find one apartment in move-in condition and the remainder of the 17 condominium apartments - nine of which have already been sold - in various stages of completion. The interior walls have all been erected and all the rnom spaces are completely enclosed.

Thermal insulation of all the exterior walls of the building has been completed and sound insulation between apartments, where there are double sheetrock walls, and hetween the apartments and the common areas of the boilding has also been completed.

Some of the progress that has been made can be readily seen from outside. The npplication of reddish brown quarry tile to the exterior walls is approximately half completed Nearly all of the double paned insulating windows and sliding doors ha ve been installed

Inside plumbing lines and electrical circuits have been completed. The electric heat pumps for heating and cooling have been installed in all 17 apartments Preparatory work on the heating, venfilating and air conditioning of the lobbies and halls has also been substantially completed. The bathtubs in the 34 bath rooms are all in place

Security System, Visitors will also find that One Markham has been completely wired for telephones and for the building-wide security system and that the elevator from the basement

Remember "The Sheehan Building?" Today It's Elegant "One Markham"

It used to be "the Sheehan huilding," an unfimshed shell in the running battle between Timothy J. Sheehan and the Borough of Princeton. It was a battle that began almost 13 years ago and occupied both parties for most of the 1970's

In 1968, Mr. Sheehan, a Princeton lawyer and developer, was planning to build an office building on the corner of Nassau and Markham. The Borough decided it wanted to keep big office buildings out of that neighborhood and wrote a clause into the new, 1968 zoning ordinance cancelling all building permits unless "substantial" construction had begun by a given date

Although other developers hacked down, Mr. Sheehan went ahead with his building. The case wound through the courts Mr Sheehan won his building permit in a unammous Appelate Court decision and later received Lermission from the Bornugh Zoning Board to build shops on the ground floor. Economic problems began to develop, however, and that permission expired

Finally, in November, 1979, J. Robert and Susan Hillier bought the unfinished building for $415,000 from Pulaski Savingsand Loan of South River, Pulaski had held the mortgage, foreclosed, and acquired title to the building through a sheriff's sale. That sale in itself was challenged in court by Mr. Sheehan, but eventually the Hilliers became

Oddly enough, in light of the Hilliers' purchase, it had been suggested at one point that the building be used for opartments. The late Murray Medyin, a member of Borough Council, proposed in 1975 that Council explore the possibility of using the building for the kind of middlemeome apartments planned for the Borough by Princeton Community Housing

MITES

Dry weather favors mites we're experiencing dry weather and I'm finding damaging populations of mites English ivy and privet species are the plants I've been called to diagnose so far, all showing symptoms leaf curling. discoloration, or defolia

Two-spotted mites are common on English ivy in populations, but they're multiplying fast These mites are very small, barely discernable with the naked eye. They feed on the undersides of ivy leaves (and a wide variety of other plants) sucking the plant juices. A large population of mites will leave cast skins. webhing and white eggs. which together are more noticeable than the mites themselves. Suppling, discoloration, curling and necrosis of ivy leaves are characteristic of mite damage These mites overwinter as adults in leaf litter, bark cracks and crevices, etc. Several generations occur per year, as eggs hatch in 3 to 10 days and young mites mature in about 10 days in hot dry weather

On privet, leaves are curling and dropping due to privet rust mites. These mites are present all season but are most damaging during cooler eather in spring and fall. Privet rust mites are more elongate than two-spotted mites and are nearly impossible to see without a hand lens or microscope.

Where damaging populations of mites occur, sprays should be used for control. Miticides should be chosen carefully, as many sprays actually increase mite damage by killing predatory mite populations Many mite problems can be attributed to the overuse or misuse of pesticides which create an imhalance between plantfeeding mites and their predators

Southerlands Plan to Turn Avocation into Business With Formation of Firm to Conduct Nature Tours

Not everyone manages to combine his avocation with a vocation and to earn a livelihood doing just what he likes doing best. Nor does every man have a wife who shares enthusiastically in his hobbies and becomes a partner in a new venture which makes the most of his interests and experience.

In 20 years of joint birding, Tom and Margot Southerland have travelled every state in the lower 48 and into Canada compiling birds for their joint life list, which now numbers 634 species. They have hiked mountains, crossed plains and searched ocean waves, garnering a storehouse of information on people, places and the environment in the process.

Now they are launching Princeton Nature Tours which will run trips for organizations tropical birds in South trips they will lead on their in the Yucatan and Palenque. own Since returning in March In addition there will be from a trip to Ecuador, the bilingual local guides, and in Galapagos Islands and Machu Mexico and Peru this often Picchu, which they helped means individuals with guide for the Stony Brook-master's degrees in ar-Millstone Watersheds cheology. Tom thinks the Labor Day trip to Hatteras could be an annual event for Princeton Nature Tours, because it is not too far and not too expensive and yields the greatest variety of Atlantic pelagic bird

Tom cites as prime assets in the new venture Margot's sense of organization and her ability to read complicated airline schedules, gained from years of making travel arrangements while she worked for the Alumni Council and currently for William Sword & Co. He contributes an encyclopedic knowledge of hirds and their habitats, a long-time concern for the environment and servation, and 16 years administrative experience in three departments at Princeton University He was most recently assistant dean of the department of architecture

Implementing the Plan. Borough Council passed, in December, a Floor Area Ratio ordinance, the first in a series of ordinances imlementing the CBD part of the Master Plan. It allows a developer to increase the permitted Floor Area Ratio of 1.5 to 2.5 in the residential part of a combination building, if the developer provides public amenities

A second ordinance, which started life as a "joint occupancy" ordinance but is now called a "Commercial Unit Development" dinance, is the one that will be discussed in detail by the Planning Board Monday night. □ Diverting Political Revue Now at Murray Theatre Re-examines Great Moments in American History

JOHNNY CASH? NO ... RONALD REAGAN? ... GUESS AGAIN: What we do know, is that "A Child's Guide to American History, or, How We Got to Be So Great" will enliven the Murray Theatre stage this weekend before it - the revue, that is - goes off to the international theatre festival in Edinburgh, Dale Coye, former producer of Princeton Summer Thoatre, wrote the satiric revue.

Did you know that Woodrow Wilson was a three letter athlete Princeton University and that he aroused the spirits of American soldiers in the trenches of World War I with old fashioned locker room peptalks? Did you know that one of the results of the depression of the 1930's was the formation of a socialist republic in Nebraska?

Program 1 Nightly WNO'LL STOP 730/TAXI ORIVER 945

WHO'LL STOP THE RAIN? based on Robert Stone's novel the DOG SDLOIERS is the story of a disaffected Vietnam war correspondent (Michael Moriarity) who participates in a drug smuggling scheme that imperits his life as well as that of his wife (Tuesday Weld) and an old friend (Nick Nolle) who agrees to act as his courier. Directed by Karel Reisz, the film delivers thrills and violence as well as social resonance and is also full of abrasive characterizations, super dialogue, and the best villains since the Bogart tilms. This is a move that doesn is et you down gently, and you find yourself in the grip of an overwhelmingly cinematic and melodramatic undertow. USA, 1978, 126 MINUTES, R.

TAXI ORIVER, complete & uncul, is one film you're never likely to see on home tv. Robert DeNiro won the Dscar for his portrait of Travis Bickle theembiffered Vietnam vel who drives a fax rathinght while turning into an urban guerilla. He moves alone through the crowd—jostled crushed ignored abused hassled but detatched unlithis trigger for violence finally takes over Martin Scorseses response to writer Paul Schrader's melange of Bremei and Hinckley is a definitive portrayal of 70 s—and 80 s—foneliness and paranoia a protoundly disturbing modern sociological horror story about urban alienation and ultimately madness. Program 2 Nightly SHAMPOO 7:30/6160L0 9:30

SHAMPOD is a virtuoso example of sophisticated kaleidoscopic farce and a friple friumph for actor-writer-producer Warren Beatty II is on one hand the story of the Beverly Hills crowd and its hustlers, and on the other an assessment of the morality, mentality, and mood of the Nixon-era beginnings. Beatty plays George, studiand male hairdresser to the stars, and we follow him through forty working hours, as he makes his way from house to house and from woman to woman fincluding Julie Christie. Lee Grant and Goldie Hawn). A contemporary mixture of restoration comedy of manners, and LA DOLCE vita 1970's the films working metaphor is sex, and you re not likely to see it uncut on to anytime soon. Directed by Hall Ashby 105A, 1975, 110 MINUTES, R.

AMERICAN GIGOLO is Paul Schrader's look at the lazy days and busy nights of a swank male hustler. Richard Gere is Julian Kay. The most successful gigoto in Los Angles, a multilingual Adonis who gives pleasure for a living (to rich middle-aged ladies), but is incapable of receiving it in return. Eventually he finds love in the form of a trustrated politicians wife (Lauren Hutton), but problems arise when he stramed for the vicious murder of one of his clients. Combining high seriousness and low sleaze. Schrader's film is a landscape of pleasure, with LA turned into a steek elegant, playland. USA. 1980. 117 MINUTES. 8.

Program 3 Nightly MANHATTAN 738/ 10: 915

MANHATTAN is Woody Allen's masterpiece to date, a synthesis of the funny ANNIE HALL, and the serious INTERIORS and an ode to the city that is the citadel of love death, and wisecracks. Woody plays Isaac Davis a 42-year-old tiv writer, overflowing with intellectual awareness and frustration, unquenchable in hope and mockery. His search for the perfect woman leads him through a series of complex relationships—from his former wife (Meryl Streep) to a neurotic intellectual (Diane Keaton), to a 17-year old hymphet (Mariel Hemiligway). Funny touching, sad and nuffy this is a lim about the pain we inflict our own hurt our missed opportunities—and our indomitability. USA, 1979, 96 MINUTES, B.

"10" is the uproarrous see farce that took the country by storm two summers ago in the performance of his career. Dudley Moore is George Webber, a 42-year old songwriter with seemingly everything—money fame, an attractive girlfriend (Julie Andrews)—but who still finds his lite incomplete until he spots the woman of his dreams. Bo Derek, an 11 out of a possible. 10. He pursues his ultimate lantasy with hilarious results, determined to overcome any obstacles (including her marriage). Writer-director Blake Edwards provides side. Program 4 Nightly MARIA BRAUN 730/LACOMBE LUCIEN 940

THE MARRIAGE OF MARIA BRAUN is Rainer Werner Fassbinder's mixture of soap opera sexual politics offbeat comedy epic romance current history social satire and period piece into an amazingly coherent whole Fassbinder uses the story of his prodigious heroine who mobilizes heiself upward (white waiting for her long-lost softier husband) as a metaphor for the deleat rise growing pains and ultimate tate of postwar Germany; from the fall of Hitler through the recovery and beyond to a destiny that combines apocalybse irony and farce. Hanna Shygulla's stunning performance in the title role establishes her as the most exciting new German screen star since Marlene Dietricti. Gehmany 1978–129 Min 1751.

LACOMBE, LUCIEN is a complex and disquieting him about a strong toutish 17 year old French farm boy who by chance joins the Bestapo in a small provincial French town just prior to the collapse of the Berman Docupation in 1944. Aimed with a police card money and gun Lucien plays with power and enjoys the prestige of the congard of or a few short, swaggering months, during which he also enters into a complex relationship with a rino of Jewish religious highing hearby. Director Louis Maile examines the behavior, of his countrymen during the occupation less with pity than with horiesh, and conscience combring documentary frum with the artist's perception of personal moralities. His firm is a disturbing one which sees war not in terms of grand gestures but as waste perty opportunism and misunderstand not present and misunderstand.

Program 5 Nightly MODERN TIMES 7.30/BEING THERE 9 10

MODERN TIMES was the last American silent film (made almost ten years after sound) and remains the most popular of all the Chaplin leatures. Although rooted firmly in the depression period of the mid-thirties, his satire on mass production and its effects on the lives of ordinary factory workers remains the definitive film on the subject Classic Chaplin sequences include his going berserk in a factory as a nightwatchman on roller skafes, and as the guinea pig for an automatic feeding machine. At the film's conclusion, the tramps voice is heard for the first—and last—lime, USA, 1996, 89 MINUTES.

BEING THERE is writer Jerzy Kosinski's funny and thought-provoking look at the pervasive influence of the individual of the pervasive influence of the individual of the late devastating commentary on our search for gurus and instant, simple answers to complex problems. In his penultimate screen role, the late Peter Selters gives a Tour DE FORCE performance as Chance, a man with no background or parents, who has spent his entire life gardening—and watching the When he is unexpectedly thrown into the real world his naivete and innocence are mistaken for wisdom, and politicians women and businessmen flock to him for guidance and insight. This is an exquisitely crafted, outrageously funny satire, one which makes a whimsical dream of a story come true. Program 6 Highlity CONFORMIST 7 30 / INNOCENT 9 30

THE CONFORMIST put Bernardo Bertofucci on the map as a major director of the seventies (LAST TANGO IN PARIS 1900). Based on the Moravia novel it is an absorbing study of decadence during the Fascist regime in the Italy of 1938—and Bertofuccis evocation of period and place is unsurpassed. Jean-Louis Trintignant is Marcello, a right wing intellectual whose fear of his own past and his instincts lead him to choose conformity and undertake a mission for the secret police, the political assassination of an anti-fascist professor and his wife. This is a dazzling movie, a friumph of style, the work of an exiderant roman fice poel of the cinema. With Stefania Sandrelli & Domingur Sanda ITALY FRANCE GERMANY, 1970, 199 MINUTES, R.

THE INNOCENT was Luchino Visconti's last film completed shortly before his death. Based on 0 Annunzios 1892 riovel, it is a passionate and elaborate tate of love jealnusy arrogance, and religious conventions at leading to death. Visconti is tascinated by the ambiguity of the society he portrays, for in this most sunny, civilized and well-ordered of worlds, fives are wiecked by passions, and lust has replaced human energies. Unfolding like the pages of a novel, this is a work of high style and sober power. With the voluptuous Laura Antonelli, Grancarto Grannini, and Jenititer, 0 Neith, it 12/1976, 115 MINISTER.

Program 7 Nightly ORESSED TO KILL 7.30/SHINING 9.25

ORESSED TO KILL is writer-director Brian DePalnia's homage to the fate great Alfred Hitchcock, a withy romantic pyschological horror hith which is at once both a reverent spoof and a sexual tease. Angle Dickinson plays a heauliful trustrated restless housewife whose erofic fantases and promiscuity lead her to become the victim of a transvestite rapist. Michael Caine is hir charming, attractive shrink and Nancy Allen a wholesome houser with an iive for air, who evinitually becomes the key to unravelling the mystery. Steamily lindidinus and full of slashed throats and arteries this was 1980, most dazzling high gloss thriller and definitely not recommended for the squeamish USA. 1980, 105 Minuff's R.

THE SHINING is Stanley in CLOI KNORK DRANGE. Kubrick's controversial but spellbinding adaptation of the Shipher King novel in which he tries for the ultimate epic horror film—and almost succeeds. Jack Nicholson plays a struggling writer who takes a job as the winter care taker at a desolate resort in the Colorador rockies, wherehe is joined by his wife ishefley Quaralty and young clairvoyant son (Danny Lloyd). The hotel is possessed by demonic spirits, and slowly, surely, the already unstable. Nicholson goes mad, finally, attempting to kill his family as the movie descends into an orgy of psychological terror. Worlick is a master all creating dread through music, shadow and image, and his film builds its crescendo of terror with a mastery that gets not only the horror itself, but the perverse beauty of horror. USA, 1980, 148 MINUTES. R.

Program 8 Nightly BLOODY SUNDAY 730 / CRIES 930

SUNDAY. BLDDOY SUNDAY is arguably John Schlesinger's finest film with equal credit due Penelope Gilfrat's brilliant script, which asks for sympathy for the non-heroes of life who make the best deal they can out of coping with what is—tike most of us—rather than what will never be Glenda Jackson, the late Peter (NET WORK). Finch and Murray Head form a romantic triangle with Head as the hypotenuse. Although poth affairs are drawing to a sad but inevitable close, we are left with a feeling not of tragedy, but of continuity. Wise, truthful and funny foo this film pierces the very heart of mans pride and loneliness. FNGLAHO 1931, 310 MINUSES. B.

CRIES AND WHISPERS remains one of Bergman's undisputed mas lerworks. His first film in color if explores the relationship among four women, three of them sisters. It is Ullmann, Ingrid. Thulin. Harrief Andersson; and their devoutly loyal housekeeper (Karen Sylwan), who strip away their characters, facades to reveal frieir personal agonies and common lears. Bergman not only reflects his rare perception about relationships and leelings among women, but provides illuminating insights into often painful universal truths about the human condition. He has said that his films are essentially emotional experiences, and they continue to represent the purest use of critema as an art form capable of probing the human spirit. Program 9 Highly PRETTY BABY 7:30/BELLE DE JOUR 9:30

PRETTY BABY is Louis Malle's valentine to the last-days of Story ville, the legendary red-light district of 1917 New Orleans. The them-12-year-old Brooke Shields is Violet, the child prostitute, and the film is a tender and romantic membire about her biret liason and marriage to an obsessed photographer (Kerth Carradine). Violet and her perverse Alice-in-Brotheland", litestyle raise questions about innocence and corruptibility. But despite its controversial subject matter, this is a thoroughly chaste, civilized film that is at once both elegant and ironic With Susan Sarandon, USA, 1978, 109 MINUTES, R.

BELLE OE JOUR is Luis Bunuel's masterpiece of cinematic erotica, based on the Joseph Kessel novel. Catherine Geneuve is the beautiful but neurotic Severine, who can only feel worthy of her husband's love through her own degradation. To gratify her hidden sensuality, she slips away from home in the afternoons to serve as a prostitute for the local madam. Seldom has sex and sado-masochism been delineated with more application—and fun. Bunuel mixes. Severines, fantasy world and reality with a master's skill, does she really become a tarfin objective reality or only in that of her own mind? With Michel Piccoli Pierre Clementi and Genevieve Page. Program 10 Nightly ESCAPE 730/BRUBAKER 930

ESCAPE FROM ALCATRAZ is the work of Don Siegel (DIRTY HARRY), master of the fow-budget male-action film. For the fifth time, he teams with Clint Eastwood, in this gripping account of the only three men to ever escape from the infamous maximum security prison located in San Francisch Bay—and who were never heard of again. Eastwood plays Frank Morris, the bank robber who, in 1962 masterminded the elaborately detailed break from the island forfress, thought to be escape proof. The cast of unknowns is excellent, headed by Patrick McGoohan as the vindictive warden, but it is the escape plantisell that makes this a film of old-fashioned, tense excitement. USA, 1979, 112 MINUTES, PG.

BRUBAKER is a lough, honest film about a reformist prison warden's battle against entreriched corruption, inodeled loosely on the real-life experiences of Arkansas penologist Thomas Murton. Robert Redford is Brubaker, who institutes massive changes and gains the respect of inmates and guards, alike, but is opposed by community, and state officials, whose illegal practices stand to be exposed by serious retorn. Struart Rosenberg's film takes a realistic in-depth look at a system in decay, and at a man who refuses to compromise in his efforts to change it. With Jane Alexander and Yaphet Kotto, USA, 1980.

satisfactorily pigeon-holed in your mind.

Take, for example, Lin-Emancipation Proclamation The scene is a classroom, with three bright and eager girls in the front row and four painfully dull and ignorant youths behind them One of the four, however, has been castigated by the lady teacher and forced to wear a sandwich board labeled "Class Disrupter" for calling in question the purity of United States motives in entering the Mexican War-Now as Teacher explains that Lincoln's proclamation, by freeing slaves, exemplified the "all men are created equal" phrase of the phrase of the Declaration of Independence, the disrupter again leaps to his feet to point out that the Proclamation was a political. not humanitarian, move on Lincoln's part. This time bewins the argument by waving a gun around the classroom

Satire on Constitution. Similarly, a lesson on the Constitution invites saure as the students learn who "We, the People of the United States" really are after Indians are excluded, also indentured servants, black slaves naturally, and of course all women.

Good humor is the hallmark of every scene. There is a reenactment in the classroom of the Battle of Saratoga A Tory spy is unearthed in a parody of "My Fair Lady" he has difficulty reciting "The snow in Stowe blows slowly down the flow " The teacher, never having heard of "The Pirates of Penzance," rewrites it as a country western number ln a courtroom drama uneven justice is meted out to Joe "Pinkie" Schlodnik for refusing to serve in World War II and for being a communist. The Monroe Doctrine becomes clear as a two man vaudeville act explains our foreign policy m Latin America

The most ambitious number is "The Historical Tragedy of Woodrow Wilson, Part 2. Done in the style of Shakespeare's "King Henry V," it has a prologue by Miss Liberty and three scenes. The entire text is in Coyeian blank verse

Since the cast functions as a team and every member shines in a variety of leading parts, no effort will be made here to allot individual praise. Suffice it to say that Irwin Appel, Philip Babcock, Norma Bowles, Brian Jones, David Rousseve, Cinny Strickland, Vigitante, Carrie Weingarten, and Gary Monheit (at the piano) are a Gary combination if were a pity to

ART In Princeton

MEDIEVAL MANUSCRIPTS On View at Firestone. During the medieval period, almost all works of art were religious in nature, since the church was essentially the last hastion of culture and, in effect, the repository of artistic skills. The illuminated manuscript is one of the most artistic spectacular achievements of this era.

The illuminated manuscript the ancestor of the illustrated book. Illustration, however, is far too simple a term to use in reference to these intricate combinations of hand wrought calligraphy, ornament and pictures. This is immediately apparent when looking at the many tomes that are included in the exhibition, "Order, Variety and Measure: The Creation of the Medieval Manuscript," that is on display at the Rare Books Gallery of Firestone Library at Princeton University.

used to display different aspects of the illuminated manuscript. These include a French Psalter from the 12th century, a 13th century Greek volume of the Gospels, a Dutch Book of Hours from the 15th century and a 13th century English Psalter as well as illuminated manuscript drew its name can be seen in almost every volume. Large lustrous areas, and tiny, finely constructed patterns and letters present gleaming contrast to the deep blues, rich reds and mellow combinations of paint and ink that were used to cover the parchment surfaces. Madonans and kings, eloquently rendered, are made more heautiful by incapital letters that often contain complete landscapes, birds, beasts and flowers, and by the subtle patterns created by the eloquently formed characters that are used for the text

Because of their extraordinarily complex nature, we have always found the study of these glorious works a demanding and occasionally difficult experience. The format of the display, however, is exceptionally belpful in guiding the viewer through the intricacies of the The exhibition is

MAYAN WEAVING

At Handworks, Guatemalaa women will be in Priacetoa this week for aa exhibit of Guatemalan weaving and to demonstrate the backstrap loom techniques of their Mayaa Indian ancestors. The exhibit is at Handworks, 306 Alexander Street, through Sunday, and is under the sponsorship of the New Jersey State Museum.

Maria Santiago and her neighbor Mariaes Perez have been brought to Princeton by Lydia Parks, an American weaver who is dedicated to preserving the disappearing art of Mayan weaving. They have brought with them a collection of village crafts. including regional costumes, jewelry, masks, belts, bags, mats, blankets, clothing and collectors' textiles which will be on exhibit and for sale at Handworks

Maria and Marines learned as children to weave the complicated patterns of their village on primitive hackstrap looms Each Mayaa village has its own distinctive colors translucent and opaque color, Although sorae of these and intricate designs, and a regional costume is a woven biography that describes the wearer's village, religious beliefs, marital status, social position and economic level

Mayan textiles are the prodocts of the weaver's pride in a painstaking, timeconsuming craft, it takes about four months to complete a few feet of traditional cloth on a hackstrap loom. The weaver rests on her knees and leans back to pull the loom into taut, workable position. Her legs weaken and the close work strains her eyes, but no Mayaa would consent to wear eyeglasses for fear of being considered a snob.

Hours at Handworks are from 10:30 to 5.

Princeton coaches and alumni scour the country in search of promising young athletes, but every so often they happen upon a prospect who never would be found through the traditional channels. This year-two coaches have come up with onexpected gold

Soccer coach Bill Muse, whose 1981 team is estimated to be the cream of the Ivy league, predicts flatly that incoming freshman Yuri Fishman will be "the best we've ever had here "Two years ago Fishman was a rising star in the junior soccer program in the Soviet Union Then his family, Russian Jews, fled the country and settled in West Hartford, Conn

Fishman's father is an electrical engineer and Yuri hopes to follow that same career path. He chose Princeton not so much because of its soccer program as its electrical engineering department. Yuri scored 56 goals in high school last year and this summer will compete on the United States team in the Maccabiah Games in Israel.

Track coach Larry Ellis discovered his potential middle distance star right under his nose at Palmer Stadium one day a year ago. Ellis introduced himself to the young man working out on the track and discovered he was Johan Bettun, a high school student from Norway visiting friends

"We began corresponding," says Ellis, "and one thing led to another and he applied here." Betton is the Norwegian national jumor champ in the half mile with an excellent time of 1 49.8. He will join a Princeton track team that has just completed its most successful season in Part of Princeton's problem is that new schedule. This fall, for the first time since 1955. the Orange and Black will not face its original rival in fnotball, Rutgers. The Scarlet Knights were dropped when they began their move toward the higher reaches of college (ootball, but their replacement on the Tigers' schedule, Delaware, is no pushover. "They will certainly be one of the top teams in the nation in their division, says Navarro of the perennial small college power.

Colgate also has been replaced on the Princeton schedule. The Tigers will play Army at West Point this year and then host the Cadets in 1982 hefore taking on Navy in the following year

The more immediate problem, however, is that the Tigers must play five of their first seven games on the road. 'That's tough, Navarro, "particularly when you start with Dartmouth, Delaware, and Brown

Navarro hopes that he can fill the holes in the line-op with some of the 35 lettermen expected to return to the team when it assembles on August 28 A good portion of the offensive line, including tackles Mark Rifkin and Jnn Schultheis, center Larry Arata, and guard Rick Klein, will return Both running backs, Larry Van Pelt and Mike Neary, can be expected to resume their starting roles.

The only starters returning on defense are the tackle and co-captain Jono Helmerich and linebackers Ed Nardi and Doug Kaye. One newcomer may help fill the depleted defensive secondary. He is Bill Meade, who transferred to Princeton from Penn State, where he started as a freshman defensive safety in the Sugar Bowl and then had a disappointing sophomore season that led him to reconsider Princeton, where he had been recruited and admitted

Something To Prove. PHS coach Marc Anderson had been concerned, he said, that his team might have been a little down after the apparent loss to Asbury Park the week before. However, at the Group showdown at Rutgers, "Everybody made up their minds to prove that we were the better team," he said.

Those who have carried the Little Tigers to their greatest season ever on the track responded again. Tom Patrick was a decisive winner in the 3,000 meter, winning that event in 8:51 — five seconds faster than the second-place finisher. John Perkins pulled away in the final 200 yards to win the 1,500 meter in 4:02.0, and placed third in the 800.

Sharpless Wins Jumpoff. In the high jump, Princeton's favored Pete Sharpless found himself tied by Kraig Saunders of Asbury Park. Neither had missed through 6-8

After both had failed to clear the bar at 6-10 (Sharpless just missed on two of four attempts) the har was lowered to 6-9 Sharpless cleared it on his first attempt in a sudden death jumpoff in which the first to clear the bar is the winner

PHS added to its score by getting a second in the 200 meter from Paul Miles, who was nipped by Kevin Jones of Pleasantville, 21.4 to 21.6, and two thirds in the hurdles.

Stephan Fletcher was third in the 110 high hurdles with a clocking of 14.3 — a tenth of a second behind the winning time — (Davis was fourth with 144) and Lamont Fletcher was third in the 400 intermediate hurdles. His time
